

Steve Laevastu & Roger Turner are your EXCLUSIVE Ravenna Realtors

Here is what our clients have to say

To potential seller/buyer in Seattle area,

I am writing this letter to highly recommend Steve Laevastu as your real estate agent. My wife and I just sold our house in the View Ridge area last October, which we consider would be impossible if without Steve's help.

We started our selling process by interviewing three agents – all with excellent track records. Among them, Steve was outstanding in two ways: he has a team and can put contractors in immediate repair work (which is very important for an old house); Also, he is so confident about his service that he guarantees that we can stop working with him if we are not 100% satisfied with him.

We decided to ask Steve to help us sell our house. As you know, the housing market is not as good as even a year ago. Only one week after we put our house on the market, there was another house right over the corner that was listed at an extremely low price. At such a difficult time, Steve discussed with us possible strategies based on his years of experience. We have this strong feeling that he really thinks and acts as if he is selling his own house, and we highly appreciate his suggestions along the way.

Then we got an offer, only one offer and at a very low price. Steve stayed calm and rational, which helped us a lot in the negotiating process. At the end, we sold our house at a reasonable price. However, even if we did not sell the house at that time, we would still use Steve as our agent – we are comfortable working with Steve, and we believe that he is trying his best to help us.

Overall, we consider that Steve is an honest, professional and dedicated person, and we will highly recommend him to potential home sellers/buyers.

Sincerely yours,

Bin Li

Service that exceeds normal expectations, that was our experience with Roger.

We had listed our house and purchased our new house within days of each other and would be moving with no potential buyer(s) in sight. We were facing two mortgages and a loan from a retirement plan.

After explaining to a friend of mine that our house was on the market about four weeks with no activity (one brokers open and one public open during which not even one agent or buyer showed up to either) he suggested that we call Roger.

After rescinding the listing with our current agent and listing with Roger, we accepted an offer within two weeks.

Roger did all the right things to give the house lots of positive exposure and it worked. Thank you Roger!

Sincerely,

Peter and Moira Tueffers

KING COUNTY GROWING!

King County grew 1.4 percent between July 1, 2006, and July 1, 2007, according to the U.S. Census, which ranked it 25th among the 100 fastest-growing counties in the country. Immigrants from other countries are a significant factor to the growth – the 10,681 new residents made up 43 percent of the county's overall population growth of 25,090, which includes births. Of those moving to King County, 83 percent came from other countries. The rest of the county's growth came from births, and more people moved here from other counties than left. Between April 1, 2000, and July 1, 2007, 82,502 people moved to King County from other countries. That made up more than two-thirds of the county's total growth – 122, 241 people – during that time.

CITY TO PLANT 800 TREES IN 2008 NEIGHBORHOOD LOCATIONS SOUGHT FOR BRIDGING THE GAP TREES

SEATTLE - The Seattle Department of Transportation (SDOT) announced today it will expand the city's urban forest in 2008 by planting more than 800 trees. As part of a nine-year planting plan funded by Bridging the Gap, SDOT's Urban Forestry team is now evaluating potential tree locations and encourages Seattle neighborhoods to nominate sites.

Interested neighborhoods can apply by phone at (206) 684-TREE (8733) or online at the SDOT Community Trees website (www.seattle.gov/transportation/btg_streettrees.htm).

The department ideally needs roadway sites where up to 100 trees can be planted, on both sides of a street, for five to six blocks. Planting contiguously allows SDOT to consolidate maintenance efforts and preserve scarce forestry resources. This is particularly helpful during the first three years of growth when trees are most vulnerable and require constant tending and watering. First preference will be given to locations along arterials and where planting strips exist with a five-foot width between the sidewalk and the curb.

A medium-sized deciduous tree will absorb approximately 1.5 metric tons of carbon dioxide over its lifetime. As part of the city's environmental efforts, approximately 60,000 street trees will be planted throughout Seattle by 2037 to help counter the impacts of global warming. Thanks to Bridging the Gap, SDOT planted 681 trees in 2007.

To encourage citizens to plant and maintain their own trees, the city's Office of Sustainability and Environment also has a new public information campaign called Seattle reLeaf. On its web site (www.seattle.gov/trees), Seattle reLeaf helps property owners decide what tree is best for them, and how to plant, prune, and water.

Approved by voters in 2006, the $365 million Bridging the Gap levy enables much-needed work by the Seattle Department of Transportation, such as roadway paving, sidewalk development and repair, bridge upkeep, and tree pruning and planting. It also supports the Bicycle and Pedestrian Master Plans, the Safe Routes to School program, enhanced transit connections and large Neighborhood Street Fund projects.

The Seattle Department of Transportation builds, maintains and operates Seattle's $8 billion transportation infrastructure. To further Mayor Nickels' goal to get Seattle moving, the department manages short- and long-term investments in streets, bridges, pavement and trees, that better connect the city with the region.

NORTHWEST MLS BROKERS REPORT STABLE PRICES, "GREAT OPPORTUNITIES" FOR FIRST-TIME BUYERS

KIRKLAND, Wash. (April 4, 2008) – Stable housing prices and strong real estate fundamentals are creating an attractive market for buyers, according to officials from the Northwest Multiple Listing Service. Commenting on just-released figures for activity for the month of March, MLS director Matt Deasy noted prices have been stable for six months and conditions have changed to a buyer's market.

Abundant supply and a slower pace of sales are among factors favoring buyers. Brokers added 13,274 new listings of single family homes and condominiums during March. With those additions, there were 46,358 active listings in the NWMLS market area, which covers 19 counties. That inventory is about 34 percent larger than a year ago, when there were 34,463 active listings. Seattle differs from many U.S. cities, Deasy emphasized, citing "more moderate price appreciation, fewer subprime loans, fewer foreclosures, a strong local economy and geographical and land use issues that make supply more limited."

Prices have been stable for six months. "The year over year price decrease the press is reporting is old news," Deasy suggested, noting that price correction happened in August and September of 2007.

MLS figures show the median price of a single family home in King County has fluctuated by only $4,050 over the past six months. The median price for a single family home that sold in King County last month was $439,900. That's down about 3.3 percent from a year ago, but up $10,000 (2.3 percent) from February. Last month's median selling price in King County reversed a downward or flat trend that started in July. For the MLS area overall, prices have fluctuated during the past six months:

Pending sales of single family homes and condominiums (combined) in the MLS system topped the 6,000 mark for the first time since October. Brokers notched 6,040 pending sales (offers made and accepted, but not yet closed) last month, improving on February's figure of 5,563 transactions. Compared to the same month a year ago, the volume was down about 35 percent.

"The current market offers great opportunities for first time buyers," said J. Lennox Scott, chairman and CEO of John L. Scott Real Estate. "Home values in our area are still holding strong, yet there is less competition for homes, so buyers can afford to be more selective and less aggressive," he added.

Continued low interest rates combined with new government-backed loans are providing first time buyers with more options for reliable mortgage products, according to Scott. "Prices are predicted to increase in the coming years due to population growth, a strong local economy, and the highly anticipated impact of Generation Y -- many of whom will soon be entering the housing market," he commented.

"Gen Y" and other first-time buyers, along with empty-nesters (all among market segments that are prime prospects for condominiums) currently have an unprecedented selection across a wide price spectrum.

According to NWMLS figures for March, there were 7,708 condominiums offered for sale at month end, about 64 percent more than a year ago. Despite plentiful inventory, prices have been trending upward since October. At that time the median sales price area-wide was $259,950. For last month's sales, the median price climbed to $263,000. That's up nearly 4.4 percent from the year-ago median selling price of $252,000.

In King County, the median price for a condo that sold last month was $294,000. That compares to the year-ago figure of $281,000 for a 4.6 percent increase. NWMLS director Dick Beeson believes the local market has "reached bottom -- or pretty darn close." Even though inventory continues to grow, Beeson acknowledged, "so does optimism among buyers, sellers and agents."

Renewed interest in higher end properties is also notable, according to Beeson. This bodes well for properties at or below median prices, he suggested. "Trickle down or up really works in real estate."

Despite some challenges with credit markets that make it difficult to qualify some buyers, Beeson said there is "vigor and energy in the local markets that we have not seen in more than six months."

Seattle's annual shoreside rite of summer attracts hundreds of thousands of celebrants to Myrtle Edwards Park for a full day of fun and one of the country's largest displays of fireworks. Three stages provide entertainment that continues up to the start of the fireworks. The Kids Fun Zone features several huge inflatable attractions, plus clowns, face-painting, balloon-making and other activities. Oodles of food vendors are on hand, and a beer and wine garden is available for the 21 and older set.
