Why Steve & Roger Should Be Your Agents

Steve Laevastu

- 1.) Our objective in each and every transaction is to go above and beyond the call of duty for you. The goal is to satisfy you so much that you tell all your friends and neighbors what a great job we did.
- 2.) We work for a premier company in the business.
- 3.) Our track record in Green Lake. We list and sell more homes in Green Lake than any other agent.
- 4.) Experience. We have over 40 years of combined experience.
- 5.) Top producers. We rank among the top 1% of realtors on a production basis. This means we get results.
- 6.) We are both graduates from the University of Washington. We both have degrees in business administration.
- 7.) Passion for what we do. We love real estate!
- 8.) Nobody will work harder or smarter to market your listing than we will.
- 9.) You have two good experienced agents working for you instead of one.
- 10.) Personal performance written guarantee. If you ever become unsatisfied with our service for any reason we will unconditionally release the listing.

Seattle Center Cultural Events

TurkFest

October 21st - 22nd

Turkey has long been the link between East and West, from Hittites and Assyrians, to Hellenistic, Roman and Byzantine. Throughout the weekend, visitors can observe the many elements of a rich and colorful mosaic that includes Turkish hospitality—the foundation of Turkish culture. Start with delicious, specially made Turkish coffee, indulge in some baklava, then take in a musical performance, a dance performance, or perhaps, some shadow puppet theatre. Produced by the Turkish American Cultural Association of Washington.

Dia del Muerto: A Celebration of Latino Culture October 28th

Life and the lives of those departed are celebrated in this important Mexican tradition, now in its third year at Seattle Center. Community altars, sugar skulls, special foods, candles, music, dance and art are both honoring and life-affirming. Produced by La Casa de Artes.

Hmong New Year Celebration November 4th

From the mountains of Laos and Thailand, Hmong people preserved their stories and language through intricate embroidery, music and unusual communication techniques. Demonstrations, exhibits and performance highlight this highland culture. Produced by the Hmong Association of Washington.

Winterfest Worldfest November 24th - 26th

A celebration of the community's cultural riches opens Winterfest at Seattle Center as Winter Worldfest; a three day showcase of dazzling cultural holiday traditions from around the world. Winter Worldfest is a free presentation of some of the region's best ethnic entertainment in music and dance performances including Irish Dance, Japanese classical dance, Tlingit Songs and Dances of Southeast Alaska, Folk & Tribal dances from Mid-East & North Africa, Croatian Dance and many more. Come celebrate the holidays with over 300 musicians and performers from nearly every continent.

Foundation releases report on King County quality of life

The Seattle Foundation's first comprehensive report on the quality of life in King County, released in June, shows many households in King County are struggling, with more than 22 percent of residents earning less than a living wage.

The report shows that affordable housing is a significant driver of regional quality of life. Location affects access to basic needs, medical care, cultural activities and recreational areas for residents. Affordable housing in South King County appears to be a major magnet for working families. By making this public, the Foundation hopes to guide local charitable giving as well as spark community dialogue.

"Nobody can make a difference unless we know where to begin," said Foundation CEO Phyllis Campbell. "This report is designed to engage our community - the donors, the doers and the dreamers all have a role in making King County better for people."

The report entitled A Healthy Community: What You Need to Know to Give Strategically, measures King County quality of life in seven areas: basic needs, health and wellness, education, economy, arts and culture, neighborhoods and communities, and the environment. It highlights regional disparities within King County as well as ways that philanthropic investments can address these differences.

The report also provides a glance at how Seattle, North Seattle, East and South King communities stack up against countywide averages on education, income, race, age, gender and sexual orientation.

This year marks the 60th Anniversary of the Foundation, the region's largest grantmaker. Last year the Foundation provided more than $46 million in grants. The report is part of the Foundation's commitment to growing a healthy community and mission to put their donors in the driver's seat.

The Foundation became a model for the nation when it was one of the first to offer donor-advised funds in the 1980s. The funds were designed to meet the demands of a new generation of philanthropists - hands-on givers looking for results.

"We approach philanthropy from an integrated approach to giving that brings a balance to people's lives," said Stewart Landefeld, chair of the Foundation's board of trustees. "That's why we're making arts and the environment an important indicator on the health of a community."

EXCERPTS FROM REPORT:

Making Ends Meet: Soaring Housing Costs, Lagging Income Threaten Stability

King County is one of the wealthiest counties in the United States, but more than 100,000 of its children visit food banks every year. The county is home to some of the nation's most successful companies, but many households struggle to afford rent and other basic expenses. Residents pride themselves on civility, but discrimination affects residents across King County, with those who are younger, non-white and lower-income most likely to report an incident. Over one-quarter of King County adults say they experience discrimination, with the most common incidents based on age, gender, social class and race.

Many households are struggling in King County. By one estimate, a single-parent family needs to earn nearly $53,000 a year to cover essentials, but almost half of King County households live on less. Meanwhile housing prices are soaring, and many affordable options are concentrated in areas far away from job centers. Higher housing costs crowd out budgets for other essentials, such as medicine or food: More than 300,000 people visit King County food banks each year, and some simply go hungry. Even a modest illness or short-term job layoff can tip a low-income household into chaos or homelessness.

These problems aren't unique to King County; they affect every large metropolitan area in the U.S. But increasingly it is local and state governments, as well as nonprofits, that are left to address them. That's because the federal government—historically the source of most public aid—has in recent years tightened the eligibility requirements or reduced funding for such programs as food stamps, housing subsidies and reduced-price school lunches.

Helping people gain stability and self-sufficiency requires investment in a variety of community supports—in schools, social services and cultural institutions—all of which improve opportunities for success. For example, parents with dependable shelter can concentrate on working and taking care of their families. Children with full stomachs pay more attention in school. And people with adequate income are free to pursue healthy lifestyles.

Land Use Notices

The following are public notices of Seattle land use activities from the Department of Planning & Development regarding applications, decisions, and other actions affecting the Green Lake neighborhood.

Project Number: 3005065 Address: 7421 4th Ave NE Zone: L2
Land Use Application to subdivide one parcel into four unit lots. The construction of townhouses has been approved under Project #6077011. This subdivision of property is only for the purpose of allowing sale or lease of the unit lots. Development standards will be applied to the original parcel and not to each of the new unit lots.

Project Number: 3004943 Address: 5502 East Green Lake Way N Zone: SF5000, L2
Land Use Application to subdivide one parcel into six unit lots. The construction of single family residences and townhouses is being reviewed under Project #6074628. This subdivision of property is only for the purpose of allowing sale or lease of the unit lots. Development standards will be applied to the original parcel and not to each of the new unit lots.

Project Number: 3004793 Address: 6900 East Green Lake Way N Zone: NC3 40'
The proposal is for a four-story, 148-unit apartment building, to include 11,500 sq. ft. for 12 live-work units and 15,000 sq. ft. of retail at ground level. Parking for 240 vehicles will be located below grade.

Project Number: 3003634 Address: 7104 Woodlawn Ave NE Zone: C1 40', NC2 65'
Land Use Application to allow two, six-story structures containing a total of 54,000 sq. ft. of retail at grade, 236 residential apartment units above and below grade parking for 378 vehicles. Existing structures to be demolished.

People with lower incomes have fewer and fewer choices for affordable housing because of soaring home prices. Many low-wage families end up paying too much for housing—sometimes more than 30 percent of total income—and then struggle to pay for other essentials such as food, heat or medical care.

A single unexpected bill can force a family into homelessness, which significantly exacerbates existing problems with employment, money management or illness. Others become homeless because of domestic violence, or suffer chronic homelessness because of substance abuse or other physical and mental health problems. Without help building their financial and personal stability, homeless people face enormous difficulty regaining shelter. Meanwhile, support services, transitional programs and homeless shelters are overwhelmed, with many shelters turning away several people for every one taken in.

An estimated 8,200 people are homeless on any given night in King County.
One QUARTER of them are children.
One QUARTER have been homeless for more than 2 years.

22.6% of Seattle residents earn less than a living wage.

Go Green with Office Products and Take it Back Network

Looking for environmentally responsible office products at competitive prices? Check out Sustainable Group at www.sustainablegroup.net. Got broken or unwanted electronic devices? Dispose of them at a Take it Back Network member location.

Based in Ballard, Sustainable Group strives to use materials that “close the loop on recycling while not sacrificing quality or durability.” Among its functional and durable products are recycled binders, recycled portfolios, cardboard binders and paper binders.

Sustainable Group’s customers include Built Green of King and Snohomish counties, which plans to use the stylish and ecologically friendly binders for its program handbooks for new members.

All products from Sustainable Group are manufactured locally and made from high-content recycled material. Co-op America, a not-for-profit organization that focuses on economic strategies to solve social and environmental programs, recognizes this innovative company as a socially and environmentally responsible business.

The Take it back Network is a group of retailers, repair shops, non-profit organizations, waste haulers and recyclers that accept used electronic equipment for reuse or recycling. These members agree to recycle these materials in an environmentally sound manner, thereby saving resources and reducing the amount of harmful contaminants that enter the environment.

Steve Laevastu & Roger Turner are your EXCLUSIVE Green Lake Realtors

Here is what our clients have to say.....

September 6th, 2006

Dear Windermere, Prospective Buyers and Sellers;

This year our family was faced with a job-related move. Just a couple of years earlier, we had found the perfect house with the help of Steve Laevastu. Steve had also helped us sell our home at the time. We were very pleased with our first experience and decided to call Steve again.

In both of our experiences with Steve, we were grateful for his excellence in marketing our home, representing us in negotiations and managing the many steps toward closing. Steve was always available, patient and enthusiastic. Moving a family is a stressful experience even if everything goes perfectly. Steve inspired confidence so that we could focus on packing, researching neighborhoods and finding schools.

We would certainly ask Steve to help us again with any real estate in the Seattle area. We would not hesitate to recommend him to family or friends.

Sincerely,

David Pereles.

Mr Roger Turner of Windermere/ Oak Tree Office

I have never written a letter such as this one before but felt the need to express our gratefulness to you for handling the sale of our property on Queen Anne Hill. We have sold quite a lot of properties in our lives but have never met a real estate salesman we felt we could really trust; we even had one forge our signature!!! In this case however, we that you gave us your all.

It took you five years-- our neighbor was the fly in the ointment. Your persistence and patience prevailed and you made the sale! Your willingness to continue trying in the face of such adversity impressed us as did your kind and gentle manner. Your dedication convinced us that you were truly a fine person with whom to deal.

We have one request and that is to exact a promise from you that you will remain as trustworthy, helpful, low-pressure and agreeable as you have been when working with us. Just remain the person you are now. Don't let those fast talking, high pressured salespeople with whom you undoubtedly come in contact with you every day influence you. You are just fine as you are.

Most Sincerely,

Dottie & Jim Anderson

"Move This House" is looking for Potential
Houses or Condos in the Seattle Area

A&E's TV show Move This House will be touring potential houses or condos for upcoming episodes. Move This House is A&E's popular home design show that airs Sundays at 4:00 p.m.

There is NO COST involved, the only objective is to produce an entertaining show in which they help you Move This House. A&E bring all needed materials and leave 99% of the items used in the design process (curtains, linens, etc.).

If your clients are chosen for the show, A&E's professional movers will pack them up and move them out. Their expert designer, Roger Hazard, will create a custom design plan for their new home and he'll set it all up. BUT in exchange they must give them complete control over the move. They must allow A&E's designer to pick and chose the items he loves.

They must also give up control at the new house. A&E's professional painters will paint several walls and/or rooms in their new home whatever colors the designer chooses. They get no say in the colors and do not get to see them until after they're moved in! Our designer will set up the rooms he thinks they will need right away using their belongings and a few surprises! They will not get to see the rooms until they are complete.

We are looking for homes in the Puget Sound area. Sell price and size aren't an issue. We love to see homes with a lot of furniture and décor.

If you know of a family you think may be a good fit please contact Stephanie Klein directly via e-mail: sklein@slpseattle.com or by calling 206-763-3383, ext. 226. Someone out there has the perfect house for the show!

Log on to http://www.aetv.com/move_this_house/index.jsp for more information or email the show

"Best In Client Satisfaction"
As Awarded by Seattle Magazine-

Steve Laevastu has been presented Seattle Magazine's 2006 Best in Client Satisfaction award for a real estate agent. This award is judged on nine different areas related to ability and service given to clients. This award comes as no surprise to the clients Steve has served in over 18 years of success in buying and selling homes.

Steve is not new to this award, as he has also won of the three years Seattle Magazine has conferred the award. Seattle Magazine is the area's definitive city and regional journal in helping residents get the most out of living in the Puget Sound region. It has been referred to as the "owner's manual" for people that live in the Seattle area.

In receiving the award, Steve was judged as excellent in nine separate areas related to ability and service. Performing exceptionally in these nine areas of customer service, integrity, market knowledge, communication, negotiation, closing preparation, finding the right home, marketing of home and overall satisfaction garnered Steve the award.

Steve's past clients have provided him with hundreds of letters of appreciation attesting to his worthiness in receiving this latest award. Steve has been able to help families bring to fruition their dreams of home ownership for over nineteen years, which is its own reward.
